Continuation of 11. does NOT place the application in condition for allowance because: applicant argues that the reference does not teach, exemplify, or describe treating diseases resulting from CI, but only has general teachings, and that the reference does not teach administering PON for CI. Applicant additionally provides references that demonstrate antioxidants in general do not treat diseases resulting in CI. However these arguments fail to persuade because the reference clearly teaches the compositions as claimed for treating, reducing and protecting from ischemic reperfusion such as CI; the reference teaches the same scope of the claimed invention; and the additional references are not specific to the claimed invention. AApplicant's claims are not to administering any antioxidant, but to PON, which is disclosed by the cited prior art. Moreover, while these references have been considered, they are not considered relevant to the claimed invention.
